DID YOU KNOW?

Rock wall climbing enhances your grip strength, gives you a full body workout, improves flexibility and agility, PLUS it's a lot of fun! Here are some more fun facts:

- You can burn 660 calories in one hour of indoor rock climbing.
- The continuous practice of rock climbing boosts flexibility and helps the muscles improve their range of motion from the intense movements required during rock climbing.
- The meditative effects that come with rock climbing can help to ease the tension and allow you to focus on the fun course ahead of you rather than dwell on what's causing you stress.
